Gardening Apprenticeship Sessions

4 Sessions of 4 Thursdays each with Ben Weiss

Benjamin Weiss will lead groups of from three to eight apprentices in a series of four apprenticeship days (10 a.m to 4 p.m.) at Pendle Hill on alternate Thursdays starting in March and continuing through October. Register for as many sessions as you wish.

Apprentices will have the opportunity to work in a large, highly functional market-style garden that provides produce to the Pendle Hill kitchens as well as herbs for Susquehanna Apothecary. Apprentices will participate in routine maintenance of the gardens, greenhouse, and hoop-house. They will learn about different sustainable agricultural styles, including synergistic and bio-intensive. They will learn about growing a wide variety of foods and medicinal herbs. This is an excellent opportunity for beginners with a serious interest, for experienced gardeners who want to learn more about growing plants professionally, or for professionals interested in learning small-scale intensive production techniques.
