

BEYOND CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

FOSTERING TRANSFORMATIVE JUSTICE IN OUR COMMUNITIES

March 10-13, 2016*

A conference for inspiration, education, networking, and action

Imagine a world where people who offend are not caged, exiled, and stigmatized for life – where children aren't fed into the school-to-prison pipeline – where historic intergenerational wounds are acknowledged and healed.

Such a world is already in the making and looking for our support. Restorative justice models are taking root in schools, workplaces, community centers, and as alternatives to the “judge and punish” paradigm. And producing amazing results. As we continue our work to end mass incarceration and the new Jim Crow, let us come together to focus on fostering restorative practices that create, strengthen, and sustain caring communities.

Experience circle processes, connect with and learn from returning citizens, restorative justice practitioners, and colleagues in the work

Kay Pranis

Rev. Nelson Johnson

Joyce Hobson Johnson

Joy DeGruy

Lorraine Stutzman Amstutz

Jerry Elster

- ◆ Respectful speaking, listening, problem-solving
- ◆ Cultivating a culture of mutual respect/concern
- ◆ Enacting alternatives to violence
- ◆ Curbing bullying and building mutual respect
- ◆ Building social capital in neighborhoods and communities
- ◆ Repairing harm by taking responsibility and taking action
- ◆ Doing democracy with real equality
- ◆ Healing and repairing wounds with deep historical roots

We are grateful for the support of the

American Friends Service Committee

$665/private room • $555/shared room • $355/commuter
*Fees cover conference costs, meals, and overnight accommodations.
Some scholarship assistance available.*

VISIT WWW.PENDLEHILL.ORG for details and to register

PRECONFERENCE

An Introduction to Restorative Practices
MARCH 10 • 1:30 - 5:30 PM - $40

* Conference begins on March 10 with onsite registration at 4:30 pm, dinner at 6:00, and opening plenary at 7:15, and ends with the midday meal at noon on March 13.

PENDLE HILL
A QUAKER STUDY, RETREAT, AND CONFERENCE CENTER

338 Plush Mill Road
Wallingford, Pennsylvania
Ext. 137, 800-742-3150 (US)
www.pendlehill.org