

December 2-4, 2016

Waiting on God: An Interfaith Conversation

facilitated by Rabbi Marcia Prager,
Rebecca Mays, and Sheikh Ghassan Manasra

Registration

Visit www.pendlehill.org, or call Ext. 137 at 610-566 4507
or 800-742-3150 (toll-free in US)

Accommodations

| | |
|--------------|-------|
| Private room | $495 |
| Shared room | $405 |
| Commute | $285 |

Travel

Pendle Hill is just fifteen minutes from Philadelphia International Airport, and twenty minutes outside the city. The campus is near the Wallingford train station. Take the SEPTA Media/Elwyn line from Philadelphia and call for a pick-up.

The expectant waiting at the core of Quaker practice is an important element in all of the Abrahamic traditions – Jewish, Christian, and Muslim. At this fallow time of the year -- Advent in the Christian liturgical calendar – we gather together as people of faith(s) to explore how focal figures in each of the Abrahamic traditions (Mary, David, and the Prophet Muhammad) can illuminate our own spiritual experiences of “Waiting on God.” Three facilitators, one from each of the three traditions, and experienced in interfaith conversations will guide us as we seek together to deepen our listening, open our hearts to hear and accept the message God has for us, and ready the spiritual soil for nurturing the gift to maturity.

Visit www.pendlehill.org for more details

Rebecca Mays is executive director of the Dialogue Institute, which promotes intra– and interreligious dialogue worldwide. Raised Southern Baptist, she became a convinced Quaker. Rebecca taught the synoptic gospels and Quakerism classes at Pendle Hill and was editor of Pendle Hill publications for 20 years. She has co-facilitated many Quaker-Jewish dialogues with Marcia Prager.

Ghassan Manasra is a globally recognized interreligious dialogue facilitator and expert, Fulbright Scholar, and lecturer from Nazareth, Israel. He serves and has served on the board of numerous Israeli, American, and international peacemaking organizations, including The Middle East Civic Forum, Sulha Peace Project, Anwar Il-Salaam (Lights of Peace Center), and the World Congress of Imams and Rabbis for Peace.

Marcia Prager is a Jewish Renewal teacher, storyteller, artist and therapist. She is director and dean of Ordination Programs for ALEPH: Alliance for Jewish Renewal, and rabbi for the P’nai Or Jewish Renewal Congregation of Philadelphia. Marcia teaches widely in both Jewish and interfaith settings

338 Plush Mill Road

Wallingford, Pennsylvania

Ext. 137, 800-742-3150 (US) / 610-566-4507 (worldwide)

www.pendlehill.org

Pendle Hill

A Quaker Study, Retreat, and Conference Center