The Spring Term

On-campus: Mar 1—May 10, 2024

A 10-week on-campus residential study program for those seeking space and community in which to share the daily rhythm of learning, work, and worship.

In a moment when the world feels exhausted, fractured, and depleted, Pendle Hill's Spring Term offers a greenhouse – a protected space for Friends and other seekers to bring leadings, ideas, questions, and other seeds of the “already but not yet” – to nurture these visions into being.

In addition to daily Meetings for Worship and shared community work around the campus, the learning component of this program will center around Pendle Hill's three core, interrelated educational themes:

- Faith and Practice, including religious thought and spiritual practice, practices of spiritual discernment, Quakerism, and Biblical studies;
- Prophetic Witness and Social Concerns through the practice of community; and
- Nurturing Creativity through a creative exploration centered in the art studio.
