Faith-Based Reparative Justice: A Tool for Racial Healing

On Campus: Jul 10-13, 2025

An in-depth conference and intensive course for faith leaders and congregants to learn about the multiple dimensions of reparations and reparative justice.

Discover how you can invite your congregation/temple/mosque deeply into this work in a multi-faith movement for reparations, with a vision for deep truth-telling, repair, and wealth redistribution with the faith community moving toward this work as a spiritual calling and moral imperative.

We will combine a democratically structured study and action oriented developmental path toward reparations with guest speakers from among the most powerful voices for faith-based reparations in the country. The goal of this conference is to equip participants with solid tools for moving their faith-based reparations organizing forward. Additionally, the conference will connect faith-based folks walking this same path so that they can continue to support one another in deepening and moving toward the deepest repair possible: relationally, spiritually, and through the transfer of resources.
